

EVERYBODY MUST STAY HOME
(Parody of "Rainy Day Women" by Bob Dylan)
Karen Sauer and Mike Delaney, 5/24/20

I never thought I'd miss my stupid job
I'm turning into such a loser slob
I sleep as late as I want to these days
I don't even change out of my pj's
I'm getting tired of being all alone
Everybody must stay home.

I watch the news and yell at the/my TV
Doesn't change a thing but (it) works for me
I use my hands to show just what I mean
Read between the lines for something [quite] obscene
I'm using swear words previously unknown
Everybody must stay home.

Well, I'm not the type to bitch and moan (oh, no?)
But when I see the folks who won't stay home
I ask myself if it's a matter of principle
Or do they really think they are invincible
'Cause scientific research has shown
Everybody must stay home

<break>

Every single day I wake up hopin'
That my favorite bar is going to reopen
I miss going out with my honey
But anyway, I don't have any money
This stupid virus really has me pwned. (pronounced
"poned")
Everybody must stay home

As I eat another peanut butter sandwich
I try to ZOOM and wish I had more bandwidth
I can't play any music with my friends
I think I might be going round the bend
I feel like I'm in The Twilight Zone
Everybody must stay home.

All alone with nothing left to binge
All alone with hair that makes me cringe.
All alone when I dream of ice cream cones
So lonely I would even make out with my clone!
I'm tired of being so all alone
Everybody must stay home

Yes, I'm tired of being so all alone
Everybody must stay home

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rainy_Day_Women_%E2%99%AF12_%26_35

Rainy Day Women #12 & 35

WRITTEN BY: BOB DYLAN